Editorial

A media plan founded on quality

Weltwoche has been Switzerland’s unmistakable, non-conformist weekly magazine for over eighty years. It investigates, cuts to the heart of the matter and also endeavours to shine a light on things from unusual perspectives. Weltwoche sees itself as an uncomfortable voice of reason. It is known for its liberal economic stance and its critical attitude towards state power. Freelance authors and columnists play their part in making Weltwoche a unique forum for interesting analyses and opinions of varied persuasions. Our readership is just as unique, being characterised by above-average educational qualifications, high incomes, consumer enthusiasm and quality awareness.
